

3 ways you can use ChatGPT

As a learning partner:

You can use ChatGPT to study for an exam.

With the "learn" command, you trigger the possibility of the AI acquiring new content.

If you now give her a link to the online text, she will memorize it.

After that you can ask them to interrogate you.

Unfortunately, it currently only works with English content.

For programming:

ChatGPT can write code in different programming languages and delivers remarkable results.

For example, to try it out, you can ask the AI to write a simple "rock-paper-scissors" game in Python and it will type the code down for you in seconds.

For content creation:

You can have her write content for emails, blog posts, social media copy, and even entire scripts for videos.

However, always pay attention to the details and the context and, if in doubt, watch the two videos again.
