

Artificial Intelligence: Midjourney

Midjourney is an artificial intelligence that can create images from so-called "prompts", which are small text phrases.

Over 650 million images from the Internet have been fed into this AI.

In contrast to ChatGPT & DALL-E, the project does not come from OpenAis but consists of a small 11-strong developer team, which works independently and is led by David Holz, who is co-founder of Leap Motion.

The AI can currently only be reached via Discord, but a separate web interface is probably already under construction.

Non-commercial use is free for the first 25 images, if you use more images and/or use them commercially, you pay a monthly fee.
