

10146_Trading types at a glance

After you have determined your trading strategy, you now have to decide which trading types you want to use to achieve your goal.

There are countless types of trading, we have put together 5 main types of trading for you:

1. Day trading: With day trading, you buy and sell on one day - often you even trade several times a day. Pros buy and sell in seconds. Here you have a high risk and need very good knowledge. This form of trading is suitable for advanced users.

2. Swing Trading: With swing trading, trades remain open for several days or weeks. You can hedge very well with stop-loss rates and invest in trend coins or make investments in a coin after good news in the press.

3. Medium-term trading: With medium-term trading, you hold the cryptocurrencies for several months

4. HODL – Buy and hold: This is the long-term strategy where you hold cryptocurrencies for several years.

5. Arbitrage Trading: With arbitrage trading, you take advantage of price differences on exchanges. You buy on exchanges where the price is cheap and sell on exchanges where the coin is expensive. The difference is your profit

In the following videos we explain the individual trading types in detail.